

The image displays three vertical rectangular columns, each designed for handwriting practice. Each column is defined by a solid black border and contains four horizontal dashed lines, which serve as guides for letter height and placement. The columns are arranged side-by-side, providing a structured space for practicing letter formation.